Athens, Greece, August 22. (AP) - The dictatorship of General Theodorus Pangalos been overthrown in a quick and bloodless revolution headed by General Condylis, former minister of war. President Pangalos was taking a holiday at the time on the Island of Spetzae.

The "Greek Mussolini" himself was arrested this morning and placed aboard the destroyer Pergamos for conveyance to

After the destroyer departed it became evident that Pangalos was endeavoring to escape, but the Pergamos had insufficient fuel to reach a foreign port, and cruised about in the narrow straits between the Island of Hydra and the mainland.

Fire on Pergamos.

The warships Kilkis and Leon re ordered to pursue her. The fired blank shots, while hydro-airplanes bombed her. The Pergamos then steamed at full speed to the south in an attempt to join the squadron steaming towards the Aegean, hoping to receive support. The battleship Leon, however, is reported to have overtaken the destroyer Pergamos and placed President Pangalos under arrest. The deposed president has been taken to Keratsini. The coup was engineered without disturbances early today, both army and navy rallying to the Condylis standard. General Condylis today was master of the situation, and complete calm was reported in all sections of the country. The general public in Athens is exhibiting general satisfaction at the turn of events.

Messages from Spetzae stated that President Pangalos had been arrested on telegraphic orders from General Condylis and was being taken on the Pergamos to the capital over which he had ruled with an iron hand since he forcibly seized power a year ago. Asks Meaning of "Plus."

"From the information at hand, I understand that everybody is satisfied unless it is Mr. Upshaw. He didn't get his bill passed. I understand that Gershon Borthers and Senator Harris are satisfied. I am not satisfied because I can't understand what was going to be done with the fifty-odd thousand dollars had it been passed. If Mr. Upshaw will please mon since he returned from his vacation, last week.

"The church," he continued. "is with my sphare, that of the glurch passed. If Mr. Upshaw will please explain this in terms that can be understood instead of 'plus,' I will be unwith my sphere—that of the church—most of all.

"Sometimes the church is hindered, but it outlives criticism. Today is a day of new demands, new creeds, new faiths, new 'isms' of all kinds. Then why have we all chosen to stand by the church?"

He took as his text, "Thout art Peter and upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," Matthew 16:18.

"Not on Peter was the church derstood instead of 'plus,' I will be under many obligations to him.

"The way Mr. Upshaw had this speech reported Saturday morning is just as misleading as the statement he tries to place before the people as to the number of bills he has introduced and secured the passage of in congress. It is just as misleading as his statement which he made to the Atlanta Federation of Trades to the effect that he was paired on a certain bill when he was not.

"A more correct way, according to bill when he was not.

"A more correct way, according to Mr. Upshaw's style of expression, would be to say that he lives in Atlanta, Ga., plus Asheville, N. C., and that his salary is $10,000 per year, plus the honorariums he receives, and hereafter the check which he indorsed in the name of J. W. Upsher, of Oklahoma City, he should say it was for $1.00 plus. Mr. Upshaw in explaining the payment of the Gershon claim should say that it was paid by check in the sum of $78.11, plus.

"This is just another instance, peo-"This is just another instance, peo-e of the fifth congressional district, the inconsistency of your congress-an. It is just another instance of "It is just another instance of the

When Mr. Upshaw explains this conduct I have copies of other bills I will be glad to have him explain to the people of the fifth congressional district."

and doubtless often ponders over the unexplained mysteries he encountered during his visit to France.

For instance, before leaving Fez, his guardian province, High Commissioner Steeg impressed upon him the necessity of sending his thanks to Premier Briand by the representatives of the government, who would meet him at Marseilles. The sultan did not him at Marseilles. The sultan did not forget his lesson, either at Marseilles or later when reaching Paris. The phrase had become quite second-nature by the time he reached Nancy, but there his master of ceremonies nudged him and whispered "Herriot."

Mystified, but obedient, the sultan rectified his little speech and sent his gratitude to "Premier Briand and Premier Herriot." He laid the new formula away in his memory and Premier Herriot." He laid the new formula away in his memory and brought it out again when he got back to Paris. But this time, to his confusion, the master of ceremonies again prompted him with "Poincare."

The sultan added the new premier as recipient of his thanks and then, turning to his aide, remarked: "That's the last, I hope, now."

Gala Labor Day Program To End With Fireworks

The program for the most spectac-ular fireworks display ever set off at a Labor day celebration in Atlanta was approved by the general Labor day committee of the Atlanta Federa-tion of Trades at its session Sunday afternoon when final details of the celebration September 6 were dis-cussed.

Observance of the day is to begin at 10 o'clock with a mammoth parade including more than 50 separate labor including more than 50 separate labor organizations and nearly a score of civic bodies.

The afternoon is to be opened with a basket picnic dinner at Lakewood Amusement park followed by an afternoon of sports, contests and amusements, and closed with a grand Labor day ball and the fireworks display at night at Lakewood.

George Haney is chairman of the amusements and contests committee; William Van Houten of the finance committee, which is raising a fund of $3.000 to cover expenses of the day; Karl Karston of the music committee; F. E. Ball of the floats committee; William Strauss of the parade committee; F. K. Stovethe publicity committee, and Louis P. Marquardt, past president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, of the special committee which has enlisted the cooperation of civic organizations in the celebration.

Two Aviation Scholarships

Pretty soon people are going to begin to take aviation and its possibilities a little more seriously.

Things are happening fast. Now a high school student may become an aviator. With a few weeks of careful instruction, he will be equipped to fly an airplane with the same ease that he drives his father's automobile, or his own, if he has that kind of a father.

In an effort to stimulate greater interest in two modern miraclesflying and electricity—an essay contest among high school students of Georgia is to be held throughout September by the utilities information committee of Georgia and the A. B. McMullen company, Atlanta aircraft corporation, on the subject: "How the Development of Flying Can Advance the Electrical Art."

Two Scholarships.

Two scholarships will be awarded the winners, each calling for a complete army course in flying. The instructions will be given by the McMullen company and the expenses of the winners, while in Atlanta mastering the art of flying, will be defined the winners, while in Atlanta mastering the art of flying, will be derived in the future.

All essays are to be mailed, with the author's name, to the committee's leadquarters, 302-3 Haas-Howell building.

The board of judges will consist of Governor Clifford Walker, J. A. K. Maxwell, of the Hamilton Maxwell, Inc., aerial surveyors; President M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech; Secretary F. H. Abbott, of the Georgia Rallway of the utilities information committee. Any high school student, boy or girl, who is 17 years of age or older is eligible.

It will be necessary for the contestant to prepare a paper, not longer than 500 words, giving his non-technical singure of the way that feet.

It will be necessary for the con-testant to prepare a paper, not long-er than 500 words, giving his non-technical views of the way that gen-eration and distribution of electricity can be improved through the use of aircraft or through improvement in the art of flying. The general himself went to the war ministry and ordered the arrest of the war minister, General Tseroulis. The other ministers were taken into custody at their homes. An order immediately was dispatched to the Spetzae garrison to arrest Pangalos and shortly word was flashed back that the dictator was a prisoner and was being sent to Athens.

Support Is Pledged.

Within a short time messages began to pour in from the army and carry at distant points pledging enthusiastic support to the new regime.

In a proclamation issued to the people, General Condylis said:

Hopi snake dance has reached a bloody climax.

Hopiland, as this village is called, presents a weird scene. Panting red men, terribly disfigured by the venomous fangs of snakes, fall to the ground in exhaustion, heedless of the writhing rattlers, whose bodies squirm everywhere.

Sunday was the third day of the Hopi pagan ritual and tomorrow the snakes will be freed to carry the word to the underworld spirits and ancestors that the Hopis want rain.

More than 5,000 white spectators gathered here at sunrise when the Hopi priests emerged from their underground kiva to begin the primitive of horror.

The snake buried his long fangs again and again in the face and shoulders of his "big brother."

The snake priest apparently didn't mind, for after the trio had circled the plaza, the first snake was thrown into a pile and another obtained.

For three days previous to the open of the dance the priests held sacred communion with hundreds of rattlers under ground. No outsider was permitted to witness the ceremony, held in a cave.

When the hungry rattlers came up from the ground the priests, in groups of three, knelt before the kiva, one of the trio drawing forth a big snake, which rattled a steady and vicious protest and warning.

Theosophists believe that the Supreme Being will use the body of Krishnamurti the same as He used the body of Jesus, the Indian Buddha, or the Persian Zoroaster. Mrs. Besant expects Krishnamurti to become invested with this new power during the next Christmas season. Until that time it is doubtful that he will have much to say. Mrs. Besant will do most of the lecturing.

HEALTH TALKS BY DR. WM. BRADY.

A Chicago woman urges me to correct the following assertion which ecently made here:

recently made here:

"There is no such thing as 'autointoxication,' if by that you mean poisoning of the body by something reabsorbed into the blood from the intestinal cavity. That is just a refined quack's invention, and the best proof I can cite is the well known fact that thousands of people enjoy the best of health, have the best complexions and live long and prosper. plexions and live long and prosper, although they have a bowel movement only once or twice a week."

That just can't be so, my Chicago correspondent insists, for she has studied her own body, and she has learned a few remarkable things from experience and actual practice on her-self, she avers. Then this Chicago critic utters a remarkable remark She solemnly informs me that "Chronic diseases are made by the accumulation of the feaces in the cells of the system and there is no get-ting away from it."

I fear my Chicago friend has a bad case of auto mental intoxication. In fact I think all alleged autointoxica-tion is mental, not physical. It doesn't happen, but the notion or fancy that such a thing occurs certainly injures the victim's health. A St. Paul woman mentions that Much depends on Monday's conference of the episcopate. While the representatives of the Catholic church can discontinue negotiations and decide to report to the pope that no return of priests at this time is possible, there is reason to hope they may take another course of action.

Urge Modification. A number of wealthy and prominent Catholics, including Augustin Legorrette, president of the national bank, conferred with Diaz Sunday, following Saturday's conference. It is believed that Legorrette, Meatro and Secretary of Finance Pani will form a triumvirate of Catholics to urge modification of the episcopate's attitude on the ground that economic necessity demands this change.

It is felt by many influential persons on both sides that modification of the Catholic stand might make it easier for them to get congressional

POSSIBLE ADJUSTMENT OF DIFFICULTIES SEEN.

Mexico City, August 22. (29)—
Mexico's bitter religious controversy, which has sorely strained the business interest sof the country, set the government and Roman Catholic church in strongly opposing positions and concentrated the anxious attention of the world on this republic, appears to be in a fair way to amicable adjustment through personal conference between President Calles and the prelates. It is confidently hoped by the episcopate that an agreement will be reached, unless unforeseen obstacles develop.

more breathing freely and hope has been renewed by reason of the statement issued by the episcopate.

The statement says:

"Some enemies of our religion have tharged the episcopate and Catholics with enmity towards the authorities and that they hinder the government's action and seek foreign influences to bring about intervention to settle the religious question which at present perturbs the country.

"With the purpose of denying such unjustified reports Archbishop Raiz and B.shop Diaz were received today (Saturday) by President Calles, before whom they protested against such charges. They declared that the espiss opate, with its doctrine and example, preaches respect for the government and has never attempted to bring about foreign intervention in questions exclusively pertaining to the Mexican family.

The arrest of Lance substantiates a theory, expressed shortly after the murder, that Donaldson was slain by parties interested in the Cobb county gambling headquarters, said to have been one of the most elaborately equipped establishments of its kind this side of Miami.

It was believed at the time that the nctorious Floyd Woodward gang of wire-tapping artists, disrupted here several years ago, were behind the Cobb county place and the theory was that Donaldson had been slain when the closing of the establishment culminated the long list of frustrations to gambling and bunco plans for which he was responsible.

When notified of Lance's arrest in Jacksonville. Solicitor Boykin told newspaper representatives that he considered his apprehension of the greatest importance and that it would likely lead to a revelation. It is the solicitor's theory that Donaldson was slain out of revenge for his activities against gamesters and bunco operators, and one of Donaldson's last official acts before his murder was the raiding of the Cobb county joint. It was after this syndiente liad been broken up that Lance is said to have threatened Donaldson's life.

A conflict of stories arises when political leaders, urging the island's independence, describe the inhabitants as peaceful and almost completely civilized, being gradually absorbed by the former Visayanes, while the secret opposition tells of terrible mistreatment of the mountain people by later comers, now in power.

Typical of these reports runs the story of the deputy governor in the province of Agusan, who is said to have taken prisoner 100 Manobos, brought them shackled to the city of Butuan, and forced them into peonage contracts by seratching their arms to draw blood, with which finger prints were taken for a blood compact. The opposition version is that 100 Hillmen voluntarily made the compact. Both stories agree that the Manobos disappeared.

Another incident was the discovery of a number of Manobos held in the province jail for six months, on charges of vagrancy. JUDGE JAMES K. HINES, ASSOCIATE JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT, RECEIVES STATE-WIDE ENDORSEMENT FROM LEADING CITIZENS THROUGHOUT EVERY SECTION OF GEORGIA.

JUDGE HINES' RECORD AS AN ABLE AND IM-PARTIAL JURIST IS HIGHLY COMMENDED AND A STRONG APPEAL IS MADE FOR HIS RE-ELECTION.

1. Those who make the final ruling on the lives, lib-erties and property of the citizens should be entirely free from obligations to any coterie, bloc or organization, and should be in a position to act impartially and fearlessly in upholding the laws and the Constitution of this State, free from the dictation of any group or influence. Judge Hines is free from any such dictation.

2. A Justice of the Supreme Court who has been tried and found qualified for that position should not be displaced merely to satisfy personal ambitions.

3. It is universally recognized that Judge Hines possesses in a marked degree the qualifications essential to an efficient Supreme Court Justice.

4. Judge James K. Hines, now Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, has filled that position ably and honorably and his experience on the Supreme bench fits him for even better service in the future. 5. The cases coming before him are ably and promptly decided and no one can or will assert that his work on the bench is not highly satisfactory. We, the undersigned, commend him to the voters of the State as an able, upright and efficient Judge who, by experience, has demonstrated his capacity to fill with distinction the honorable position he now holds.

With the title already won, the Empire State team reasserted its supersnacy by taking the doubles in straight sets, 6-2, 6-7, 7-5, 6-1.

Lott and Williams, defending their title to the Simpson cup, the tournament trophy, fought doggelly in the singles, but were unequal to the terrific pace set by their opponents.

Lott thrilled the galleries with his brilliant opposition to Richard's smashing game from the net. He forced Richards to his limit several times in the long game, but he could not keep the play away from the net and fell under the furious Richardsonian volleying in the close gale.

During the week the Barons again nosed Memphis out of second place, the Chickasaws winning five and losing three, including today's game.

Nashville continues to hold fourth position with the second division teams, showing no change in relative standing.

The New Orleans defense fared badly. The league leaders made 15 errors in six games and allowed opponents 22 runs, while New Orleans was making but 23 scores. Birmingham and Memphis, on the other hand, tightened their defense system considerably. In six games Birmingham held opponents to 15 runs. The Barons made but eight errors. They got 67 hits and made 40 runs. Memphis scored 43 runs while holding opponents to 18 tallies in seven games. In the seven contests Memphis fielders made but three errors. # Soldiers Split

The 22d Infantry for the first time this year split a double-header at Fort McPherson Sunday, losing to the Buick Motor Company, 3 to 1, and then turning around and licking Oakland City, 9 to 3. In the past the soldiers either have been winning two games in one afternoon or losing two, but yesterday they split a pair.

The first game can be summed down to one thing. Too much Bennett. Although Bennett allowed the soldiers eight hits, he kept them well scattered. The soldiers were able to push only one run across in the last

By far the outstanding achieve ment was that of the Cardinals fighting bitterly for St. Louis' first pennant. Rogers Hornsby sent his youngsters, Rhem, Keen, Reinhart, and Sherdel, to the mound and they

Jess Haines and Grover Alexander gave him well pitched victories. The did onensive at the plate with poor fielding.

They committed only five errors. The result was that the Cardinals locked with Pittsburgh at the top of the standings, only to fall a half game in the rear when the Pirates won twice Saturday.

The heated race in the National, which now bids fair to extend into the last days of the season, has caused discension to crop out in various clubs and several changes have been made. Frank Frisch, of the Giants, considered one of the second base stars, failed to appear with his team Saturday in St. Louis, and could not be found. Max Carey, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, went to Brooklyn after being cleared by the league president of charges of interfering with the management of his team. Rabbit Maranville, veteran shortstop who gained fame in the Roston Brayes' nennant rush of 1914.

team. Rabbit Maranville, veteran shortstop who gained fame in the Boston Braves' pennant rush of 1914, was released by Brooklyn.

A Great Battle.
Cincinnati won four games without a loss and fought Boston to a 14 inning 2-2 tie on Saturday. The Reds are right on the heels of the leaders and their great pitching staff appears to be returning to form. The appears to be returning to form. The New York Giants were disappointing and their hopes for a pennant have been abandoned. They won only one of and their nopes for a pennint have been abandoned. They won only one of five starts, scoring only six runs on 33 hits.

Little happened to arouse interest in the American league, Saturday ifinding the Yankees again in possession at a 10-game lead. Philadelphia rushed into a battle with Cleveland for second place, but fell a game behind.

Ted Lyons furnished something for history when he pitched a no-hit, norun game against the Boston Red Sox Saturday, the only performance of its kind in the major leagues this season, he won by six to nothing. Rain interfered with the Washington Senators throughout the week, but they won the only game they played. Chicago, Detroit, New York and Boston also were on the winning side and the Athletics won three and lost three.

At 57 Harden street is located a large automobile reconditioning shop, and in this plant which is owned by ft. A. Whitemire, a car as good as new may be made out of a badly smashed of burnt automobile.

Mr. Whitmire has a sig plant equipped with the very latest machinery to do this kind of work and acrew of expert workmen who can make an old battered up automobile look like new in a few days time.

These men can replace any part of body or fenders of any kind of car that is made. Very often cars sin a serious wreck or a fire and look like they are not worth saving, but this is where Mr. Whitmire's shop axeels.

Take an automobile that has been in a street in a fire. There is nothing here to replace. Everything about the body, top and seats must be made new to make all the wood parts about a car and will some workmen are getting out the special pieces for that make of ear, others fit them, and the same way with the metal. New tops and seat overs and the old burnt car looks again like new.

Mr. Whitmire, who has made a careful study of his business, states:

"Anybody who has a good car that is giving them dependable service and has the misfortune to have their car bad ly smished or burnt need not necessarily buy a new car, but rather sell

Burnt or Damzged Cars | Atlanta Envelope Company Made New by Experts Increases Capacity of Plant

During the past few weeks, the Atlanta Envelope company, manufacturers of commercial envelopes, has increased its capacity. Several of the latest type automatic envelope machines have been added, with the plant is now approximately three quarters of a million envelopes, or an output of one and a half thousand envelopes per minute.

These figures are for the envelope of the plant only. Besides this mammoth output, a large volume of cemmercial printing, stationery, billheads, order books and the like is constantly being produced by the printing department of the Atlanta Envelope company.

Many favorable factors will help the building game in the southeast in the next few months in a bigger and greater way than they have ever done before and the first of these is confidence, Mr. Hanshan declared.

Money, brains and raw material have been flowing north for generations, which has been a great drain on the south, but the wiser men have within the last few years seen that the south is the place to invest their money, use their brains and convert more raw material into finished products. The building of every mile of a Bumper crops raised in almost all sections of the southeast this year will enable many people to build new homes or business places and this, coupled with the fact that the standcoupled with the fact that the standard home of the average American is far better than it was 25 or 30 years ago, means that the home owner is taking more pride in his new home than his forefathers did and is selecting the material that goes into it with more care than his ancestors did.

However, taking industry as a whole, while the weekly average commodity price. the weekly average commodity price has again turned downward, there is no evidence of any great accumulation of goods, while on the other hand, convincing evidence may be found pointing to a continuation of high buying rower on the part of the general continuation of the province of the general continuation of th convincing evidence may be found pointing to a continuation of high buying power on the part of the general public, which will be translated into active demand for goods for the remainder of this year.

Our best bankers here are expecting retail sales for the remainder of 1926 to show a gain over the corresponding period of last year of close to 5 per cent in dollar value with production in units such as tons of pigiron and steel ingots showing an increase of from 3 to 5 per cent. Despite these expected increases, however, our best bankers are looking for a narrowing margin of profits from a further decline in prices and from the accumulating high cost of doing business.

Bankers here in Wall street in close touch with business men throughout the country report increasing difficulty among retailers to get the public to buy. Retail merchants report that they are becoming more and more dependent upon advertising to get the public to buy, not because the public has less buying power than it had or that anything like a buying strike is

The Allied Architects' Association of Los Angeles has filed a libel suit for $15,000 damages against Charles.
Scribner's Sons, publishers of the magazine "Architecture." and Albert C. Martin, author of an article published in the magazine which criticized the association.

lished in the magazine which criticized the association.

Martin's article is said to have charged that the association resulted in extra cost to patrons and pointed to alleged mistakes in construction of buildings in Santa Barbara damaged by earthquake. The article is quoted as saying that "had this work been in the hands of competent architects, several lives would have been saved."

The association, an organization of GO architects, declares in its suit that the article is false.

Revolt of the Spanish Colonies.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

By FLORENCE RIDDELL

INSTALLMENT XXV. A WHIRLWIND RIDE.

Time seemed unending before Richenda heard the native returning accompanied by the dull pad of many feet, the clack of excited tongues. Then All hove in sight, some twenty primitive natives speeding with him. All of them approached Richenda with a welcoming yell and all of them, oil-rubbed but never by any chance water-bathed, carried also to her fastidious nostrils a most unattractive smell! Coconut oil, red clay, half-cured furs and the odor of unwashed bodies—everything, that should not be was to that smell! not be was to that smell!

Now they were around her, smell and all, half a dozen at the back, some seven or eight each side, urging "Elizabeth" into triumphant motion till she careered over the ground in pace with their flying feet.

"Aya colombil" yelled the commander of the gang. Some sort of encouraging hail this which the natives use at times of effort. Something she shrilled. "Not a cent till you take untranslatable, meaning: "Get a move on! Put your back into it, brothers! Heave ho!" and a dozen other things as well! "Aya colombil" roared the crowd in ear-splitting chorus as Elizabeth groaned up to the crest of a low hill.

"Aya colombil" sopranoed the toto riding in state by Ali's side on

'Merciful heavens!" besought Richenda, crouched in a little heap

The hill topped, Elizabeth took unto herself wings as she sped down the slope in front. Brother Kikuyu, seeing no need for effort, anxious to try the new sensation of riding aboard this rattling fron monster, glued himself on every available niche the car could offer. Some alf dozen sat on each side door; two, bolder than the rest, sprang to the rug on Richenda's feet; one sprawled on the cushion at her side; one perched himself astride the rattling bonnet; and the ancient "four-seater," seating rather more than fourteen for once in her checkered career, tore down the hill with the speed of a mad rhinoceros, every nut, every bolt shrieking at the insult of the unaccustomed weight. "For pity's sake, get off!" Richenda implored unheeding ears. "We shall all be killed!"

She dealt one youth, precariously balanced, a frantic dig into the ribs that protruded leanly under his nude brown flesh. The onslaught caught him unawares; he crumpled suddenly, gave a wild shriek, and fell with a whirlwind sprawl of arms and legs into the oblivion of the dust

The crowd sent up a yell of appreciative mirth. Richenda, terrified now, turned to the others.

But Ali Mutagayo, hands paralyzed on the wheel, every sense intent on steering this thing that tore like a whirlwind over the ox cars track, entirely forgetting in his inexperience that brakes existed, had neither eye nor word for his distressed fare.

Came a series of holes. Richenda and the clay-daubed gallant at her side bounded up to the cotton hood above—came down—bounced again six inches off their seats. The youth on the bonnet rattled against the wind screen till the glass threatened to shiver in the frame, and a shriek of fresh delight came from the uninvited came.

"This motoring—it is damn fine!" was the burden of their Kikuyu couched appreciation. "M'suri sanal Excellent!"

They reached the bottom of the hill in a few seconds—which had seemed time immeasurable to Richenda, and Elizabeth came once more to a wheezing stop. Then, with a moan of disappointment, the score of nude bodies descended into the road and once more took up their labors.

"Aya colombil" came the voice of the leader of the chorus. "Aya colombil A-a-ya colombil" they roared in unison, and strained their muscles upon the car again.

Richenda sat back breathlessly. The smell of the rank bodies about aer, the raucous yells of them, the thundering, bouncing motion of the car—it was all a nightmare. She felt suddenly weak, so weak that she scarcely cared what might happen next. And the bitter chill of the East African night was eating into her bones.

Another hilltop, another leaping surge of oil-rubbed bodies, another wild song of delighted triumph, more rattles, more bounces. A longer slope this time, steeper. And the hands of Ali Mutagayo were not steady on the wheel now. The thing was running a zigzag course, scudding over the ground till the rush of the wind bade fair to suffocate the girl on the back seat. There would be death at the end of this—death underneath a surging mass of brown, bleeding, stifling bodies!

And she didn't care. She was past caring now—past praying.

When they rattled to the end of the slope this time Richenda had sagged in her seat—white as death, unconscious of everything about her. w many more rises they topped and left behind she never knew. Things flew by in a whirling gray mist. Time was not. It was the voice of Ali Mutagayo at her ear, the touch of his hand on her arm shaking her gently, concernedly, that brought her senses back.

She opened her eyes, saw a forest of cupped palms thrust close

"Memsahib, here is Lambogru," said Ali Mutagayo. "Baksheesh, baksheesh, baksheesh!" chorused the wild men of the forest, already well versed in the "tipping" propensities of the European

"They must take me to the farm of Bwana Brodie," she said faintly but inexorably. "It is in Lambogru."

It was as well that she did not realize that the sparsely populated listrict of Lambogroudly distance are large area and that the Brodie farm might yet be a goodly distance away.

Happily, at that moment, a white-kunzaed house boy passed on his homeward way and directed Ali Mutagayo to the required homestead, WINNIE which proved to be barely a mile further along the road.

But, having reached Lambogru, the clan of helpers was curiously reluctant to proceed a yard further. They sent up a clamor of tongues which, interpreted by the harassed Ali, gave Richenda the information that their wives were all alone and their children were sick and their parents were dying and the lions were eating their herds and the village would probably be burnt down and they didn't like to "go home in the BREAD-dark" and a score of other complaints too numerous for translation. And the united chorus of their clamorous anthem was: "Baksheesh, memsahib, baksheesh!' Richenda braced herself then, clutched her little beaded handbag more closely between her fingers, squared her small chin at a pugnacious angle, faced them—that odd score of unclothed savages—faced them, spears and smell and all.

"Not a cent," she shrilled. "Not a cent till you take me to the Twenty brows frowned omniously, twenty pairs of hands twitched hungrily, then, through twenty primitive brains ran memories of the doings of the white raj under whose protection this frail, slim, flashingeved creature stood.

Pastors Invited To Attend Debate On Church Duty

Pastors of other churches and city and county officials were invited by the Rev. Luke Rader Sunday night to attend the special service in the revival airdome on Forsyth at Whitehall street at 7:30 o'clock tonight when he will divide time with Mrs. J. E. Andrews, Atlanta reform leader, on the question of church poticipation in moral reform movements.

The joint discussion of the issue was arranged Saturday after Mrs. Andrews had issued a statement criticizing Mr. Rader's statement from the pulpit that the church has no place for crusades against crime and vice. A pastor is to preside over the discussion, limiting each speaker to 30 minutes by the clock. Seats on the stage will be reserved for visiting pastors and any city officials who may attend.

Mr. Rader preached Sunday night

"Although the world is still at war and vice is rampant and crime uncurbed, God has not failed," the evangelist declared. "He is even now selecting His own from among all who will accept it. It is the sole mission of the church to serve as His instrument in speading the Gospel to all men, giving them an opportunity to accept Him and to let Him save them. The church has no mission other than that and it weakens itself when it tries to assume any other," he asserted.
